James Boysen, MD Medical Director of Texas NeuroRehab Center announces retirement, Laura Gilbey, MD to serve as new Medical Director

Austin, TX, January 4, 2021 –Texas NeuroRehab Center (TNC) announced that James Boysen, MD and Medical Director of TNC will retire in January 2021. Dr. Boysen, who is Board Certified in Internal Medicine, Pulmonary Disease and Critical Care Medicine, has served as pulmonologist of Bluebonnet Medical Rehabilitation Hospital since it opened in 1986 and as Executive Medical Director since 2008. Dr. Boysen has been instrumental in the facility’s success and its ability to provide rehabilitation for patients with traumatic brain and spinal cord injuries and stroke.

“Dr. Boysen’s impact on our growth, outcomes, patients, families and staff over the last 35 years is immeasurable,” said Ed Prettyman, PsyD, and CEO of Texas NeuroRehab Center. “His legacy will live on, even after his retirement.”

Laura Gilbey, MD will assume the role of Medical Director of Bluebonnet Medical Rehabilitation Hospital. Dr. Gilbey is Board Certified in Pulmonary Disease and Critical Care Medicine and has previously served as the Medical Director of the Respiratory Departments and Intensive Care Units at both St. David’s Round Rock Medical Center and St. David’s North Austin Medical Center. She also sees patients at Austin Pulmonary Consultants.

In addition, to Dr. Laura Gilbey, Sean Gilbey, MD will also join TNC as a pulmonologist. Dr. Gilbey is Board Certified in Pulmonary Disease and Critical Care Medicine and previously served as the Medical Director of Critical Care and the Respiratory Department at St. David’s South Austin Medical Center. He is also the President and Managing Partner of Austin Pulmonary Consultants.

“Drs. Laura and Sean Gilbey will make a great addition to the TNC Team,” said Dr. Boysen. “I have worked closely with both of them for many years, both at St. David’s and in private practice and they are very well respected in the medical community.”
